1. What personal information do we collect about you?

We collect the information necessary to be able to find available opportunities and further information needed to assess your eligibility through the different stages of recruitment. This information may include your name, contact details, family details, CV's, identification documents, educational records, work history, employment status and references.

We might sometimes also collect sensitive personal information about you, such as details of criminal convictions and ethnic origin.

We only collect sensitive personal information from you, and further process this data, where you have given your explicit consent or otherwise where permitted by law.

2. Where do we collect personal information about you from?

The following are the different sources we may collect personal information about you from:

- Directly from you. This is information you provide while considering or searching for a new opportunity (for example when you provide a CV) and/or during the different recruitment stages.
- From an agent/third party acting on your behalf.
- Through publicly available sources. We use a range of public sources including:
  - LinkedIn
  - Google
  - Facebook & Twitter
  - Other social media platforms
  - Company web sites
  - Other information in the public domain
- By Reference or word of mouth. For example, you may be recommended by a friend, a former employer, a former colleague or even a present employer.

3. How do we use your personal information?

- To provide a requested service or carry out a contract with you
Where we are asked by clients under our Legitimate business interest to suggest candidates who may be appropriate for a specific role. At this stage we only produce and provide publicly available information.
- Where we have your consent
We will contact you to discuss an opportunity and only provide further information to the client with further information you have given us with your specific consent.
- Where we have a legitimate interest
All the data we collect and process from the data subject will be used only in relation to our executive search and assessment activities. Legitimate interest means that we do not require consent from the data subject.

4. How long do we keep your personal information for?

We keep your information for the following periods, whether you are based within the EEA or outside.

Candidate data: Our policy is to retain Candidate Data for up to five years, whether we are holding this data under legitimate interest or with an individual's consent.

Should we wish to continue to hold data after five years:

- Where we are holding data under legitimate interest, we will assess whether the legitimate interest still applies
- Where we have received consent, we will seek to contact the individual to ask for continued consent.

5. Who do we share your personal information with?

We share your personal information with a client who has a position to fill, in order to determine with the client whether you are a good fit for the available position. We may also share your personal information with a client who is interested in assessing potential candidates for future vacancies (ie during talent mapping and talent pipelining exercises).

We follow the same guidelines whether candidates are based within the EEA or outside. Where our client or a role is outside the EEA we might transfer personal information outside the EEA, but always using the same guidelines in obtaining Consent, as in 3 above.

We share your personal information with trusted third parties where we have retained them to provide services that you or our clients have requested, such as referencing, qualification and criminal reference checking services (as required), verification of the details you have provided from third party sources, psychometric evaluations or skills tests. These third parties comply with similar and equally stringent undertakings of privacy and confidentiality.

We share your personal information with our other Group companies for internal reasons, primarily for business and operational purposes. As we continue to develop our business, we may sell or purchase assets. If another entity acquires us or merges with us your personal information will be disclosed to such entity. Also, if any bankruptcy or reorganization proceeding is brought by or against us, all such information will be considered an asset of ours and as such it is possible they will be sold or transferred to third parties.

Where required we share your personal information with third parties to comply with a legal obligation; when we believe in good faith that an applicable law requires it; at the request of governmental authorities conducting an investigation; to verify or enforce our Terms of Use or other applicable policies; to detect and protect against fraud, or any technical or security vulnerabilities; to respond to an emergency; or otherwise to protect the rights, property, safety, or security of third parties, visitors to the our website, our business or the public.

6. What happens if you do not provide us with the information we request or ask that we stop processing your information?

If you do not provide the personal information necessary or withdraw your consent for the processing of your personal information, where this information is necessary for us to provide recruitment services to you, we may not be able to match you with available job opportunities.

7. Do we make automated decisions concerning you?

No, we do not carry out automated decision making.

8. Do we transfer your personal information outside the EEA?

For specific clients outside the EEA and relating to specific roles we might transfer personal information outside the EEA but it will only be on the basis outlined in the preceding sections and with the candidate's specific consent.

9. What are your rights?
By law, you have a number of rights when it comes to your personal information. Further information and advice about your rights can be obtained from the data protection regulator in your country.
Rights	What does this mean?
1. The right to object to processing	You have the right to object to certain types of processing, including processing for direct marketing (i.e. if you no longer want to be contacted with potential opportunities).
2. The right to be informed	You have the right to be provided with clear, transparent and easily understandable information about how we use your information and your rights. This is why we're providing you with the information in this Policy.
3. The right of access	You have the right to obtain access to your information (if we're processing it), and certain other information (similar to that provided in this Privacy Policy). This is so you're aware and can check that we're using your information in accordance with data protection law.
4. The right to rectification	You are entitled to have your information corrected if it's inaccurate or incomplete.
5. The right to erasure	This is also known as 'the right to be forgotten' and, in simple terms, enables you to request the deletion or removal of your information where there's no compelling reason for us to keep using it. This is not a general right to erasure; there are exceptions.
6. The right to restrict processing	You have rights to 'block' or suppress further use of your information. When processing is restricted, we can still store your information, but may not use it further. We keep lists of people who have asked for further use of their information to be 'blocked' to make sure the restriction is respected in future.
7. The right to data portability	You have rights to obtain and reuse your personal information for your own purposes across different services. For example, if you decide to switch to a new provider, this enables you to move, copy or transfer your information easily between our IT systems and theirs safely and securely, without affecting its usability.
8. The right to lodge a complaint	You have the right to lodge a complaint about the way we handle or process your personal information with your national data protection regulator.
9. The right to withdraw consent	If you have given your consent to anything we do with your personal information, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time (although if you do so, it does not mean that anything we have done with your personal information with your consent up to that point is unlawful). This includes your right to withdraw consent to us using your personal information for marketing purposes.

We usually act on requests and provide information free of charge, but may charge a reasonable fee to cover our administrative costs of providing the information for:

- baseless or excessive/repeated requests, or
- further copies of the same information.

Private and Confidential

Alternatively, we may be entitled to refuse to act on the request.

Please consider your request responsibly before submitting it. We'll respond as soon as we can. Generally, this will be within one month from when we receive your request but, if the request is going to take longer to deal with, we'll come back to you and let you know.

10. How will we contact you?

We may contact you by phone, email or social media. If you prefer a particular contact means over another please just let us know.

How can you contact us?

If you have any enquires you can contact us at: email address or by writing to us at:
